were Larry Bevington, city administrator here, and Mayor D. L. Hulse of Arcadia. Mr. Hiestand, who was instrumental in having the basins built, is now sponsoring a bill to make unions subject to the anti-monopoly laws along with corporations. He returned to Washington after his speaking date Wednesday. Yes, Rep. Hiestand does think President Eisenhower will run again.

First Western Submits High Bank Stock Bid

Directors of the Bank of Sierra Madre have received several offers for the purchase of the stock of the bank, President Thomas W. Neale announced yesterday.

The highest offer has been submitted by the First Western Bank and Trust Co. and amounts to approximately $425 a share, more than double the stock's book value. The bids have been referred to Judge Arnold Praeger, trustee of the estate of Rollin C. Lewis, late president of the Bank of Sierra Madre who died last November.

The high bid calls for an exchange of 17,000 shares of First Western's stock for 2,000 shares of the Bank of Sierra Madre. Since this is the total number of shares outstanding in the local bank, acceptance by stockholders would mean that the Bank of Sierra Madre would become a branch bank of the First Western System.

Before the bids are referred to stockholders, Judge Praeger is expected to consult with the Internal Revenue Service and with the beneficiaries of Mr. Lewis' trust.

The bids are scheduled to be submitted to stockholders at their meeting March 13 in the bank here. If the proposal is approved, First Western has agreed to retain all of the personnel of the Bank of Sierra Madre.

Mr. Neale emphasized that no definite action has been taken, either by the Board of Directors or the stockholders, and that it may take several months to consummate any transaction.

First Western is a subsidiary of Trans-America Corp., which in turn is connected with the Bank of America.

Under the terms of Mr. Lewis' trust only 880 shares must be sold to the highest bidder. This was the amount held by Mr. Lewis.

Offers are being made on the total number of shares outstanding, however, so that the bidders may obtain control of the bank.

PARTICIPATING in the Court of Honor Feb. 12 in Church of the Ascension for Explorer Post 376 were, from left, the Rev. Harley Gibbs Smith; Christopher Mecca, who received the God and Country Award and merits badges; Robert Joehnick, God and Country; Thomas Emory Steele, God and Country and Eagle Award; Raymond Smith, God and Country, and Scoutmaster Walter H. Goodwin.

Band Rehearsals Get Under Way

Sierra Madre's concert band, under the direction of Walter Laursen, rehearsed Wednesday evening in the Congregational Church gymnasium.

Mr. Laursen has invited all persons in the community who play an instrument, even though they are out of practice, to join the band.

New Firm To Locate In City

Mission Aides, Inc., an independent manufacturer of phonograph records for missionary work, is constructing a new building on the south side of E. Montecito near Mountain Trail, President Hugh Bell Sr. announced yesterday.

The building, which is expected to be completed by May 1, will have about 2,600 feet of floor space. The company will be able to produce approximately 500,000 records a year and will also manufacture a small number of pre-tuned radios, Mr. Bell said.

Records made by the company are all educational and religious in content and will be made here by volunteer labor which will be supplied primarily by various churches.

Mr. Bell's son, Hugh Bell Jr., 536 Ramona, will be in charge of operations after his father returns to his home in Flagstaff, Ariz.

Uncontested Vote In April Assured As Filings Close

A nominating petition was filed shortly before the deadline last week for Councilman David S. Wood, bringing to four the number of incumbents seeking reelection in April. Since no other petitions were filed, the election will be uncontested.

The other three office-holders up for reelection are City Clerk Marie Warfel, Mayor Charles H. James and City Treasurer C. J. Pegler.

Dr. Wood's petition, circulated by Norman R. Davidson, of 318 E. Laurel Ave., was signed by Mrs. Anna Marie Davidson, Mrs. Eloise S. Walker, Jack K. Walker, Mrs. Judith Schomaker, Verner Schomaker, Mrs. Elena Brown and Claude H. Brown Jr.

Hiestand Asks An Anti-Trust Law on Unions

Rep. Edgar W. Hiestand (R-Calif.) said yesterday he is introducing a bill to make labor unions subject to anti-monopoly laws along with corporations.

Present laws now permit labor organizations "to conspire without restriction either in restraint of trade or against the freedom of the worker," Hiestand said.

The 21st District representative arrived in the Southland Monday for a three-day visit which included speaking engagements in Los Angeles, Pasadena and North Hollywood, and an inspection of debris dams in the San Gabriel Valley.

"Any labor organization which is sincerely opposed to monopolies and which truly represents the best interests of the American worker should welcome this legislation," Hiestand said.

Loopholes in present laws now condone "a tyranny over the individual worker by labor racketeers," he said, adding:

"The American workingman has been tricked, swindled and coerced into doing things in which he doesn't believe simply to get or hold his job and provide for his family."

New Store Opens on Sierra Madre Blvd.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Cunningham, of Alhambra, are the owners of Cunningham's Stationers, just opened at 156 W. Sierra Madre Blvd. Although already open for business, the new store will have its formal grand opening in about two weeks. Sierra Madreans will remember Ann Cunningham, who worked here for many years.

Police Still Seeking Clue To Mysterious Shooting

It's a Dog's Life; Eh, Spike?

"Spike" went to school last week. And before his education was over (not permanently, it is feared) he had the police department, the neighbors, at least two schools and the dog pound in a state of shock.

Spike, a 2-year-old Boxer belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rickard, of 71 E. Alegria, started his big day last Wednesday by sailing over the Rickards' 6-foot fence to trail Perry Rickard, 10, and his brother David, 6, to Church of the Ascension School.

The sisters at the school put him in the yard. Spike promptly sailed over the 8-foot fence and soon was exchanging harsh words with a new canine acquaintance in a nearby yard.

The police received a call. Spike happily accompanied them for a short ride—and wound up in the dog pound. When life in the pound began to pall, Spike decided to change his brand of education. You guessed it; the fence again.

Another call to the police: a big, dangerous dog was hanging around Sierra Mesa School—and Spike was in the brig again.

Some time later pound authorities noticed that Spike had done it again. This time he steered clear of the schools.

As nearly as interested parties can figure it out, Spike spent the night on the town, winding up Thursday morning at the home of friends on Sierra Madre Blvd. for breakfast.

At present, he is confined in the Rickard home—oops! There he goes!

Victim in Critical Condition, Unable to Stand Questioning

Temple City sheriff's detectives today still were waiting to question the victim of a mysterious shooting Sunday in Santa Anita Canyon.

As of late yesterday, the condition of Francisco Carreon, 31, of Los Angeles, still was too critical to allow questioning.

Mr. Carreon was carried out of the canyon Sunday in the Winter Creek area of Chantry Flats by members of the Sierra Madre Search and Rescue Crew after he had been given first aid by Scoutmaster Kenneth Phillips, of Burbank.

The wounded man stumbled into the Boy Scout camp in the morning, gasping, "Shot—shot."

He had been wounded by a .22 caliber slug which entered the left eye and came out above the right ear.

According to Fred LaLone, of Sierra Madre, a member of the rescue crew who accompanied Mr. Carreon in the ambulance to General Hospital, the wounded man said:

"I parked my car at the end of the road and walked down the trail. I stopped along the trail and lay down to rest. A man came up and shot me."

The victim failed to see the person who shot him, Mr. LaLone said.

The Sierra Madrean said Mr. Carreon told him before losing consciousness that he "thought he heard a noise" and then "saw a flash."

The next thing he knew he was staggering down the mountain toward the Boy Scout camp. Temple City Sheriff's Detective Don Jones estimated that Mr. Carreon traveled a quarter of a mile from the approximate spot of the shooting.

The detective found a trail of blood, but a search of the area failed to disclose a gun or any clues to the presence of a would-be killer.

Mr. Carreon is employed as a laborer and boards with a Los Angeles family. His father is deceased and his mother resides in Mexico.

PTA Here Breaks Precedent With Two Life Memberships

The Sierra Madre PTA broke tradition last Thursday at its annual Founder's Day Dinner by awarding two coveted Honorary Life Memberships in the organization.

Recipients are Philip T. Mitchell, city recreation director, and Mrs. Harold Clardy, who has been active in the PTA for 10 years.

In the past, the PTA has awarded only one life membership. "We broke tradition this year," said Mrs. Claude H. Brown, PTA president, "because we had two people who are equally outstanding."

Mr. Mitchell, sixth grade teacher and PTA recreation chairman, has worked for many years with the City School and the School Board to create a well-rounded recreation program.

He is responsible for the vacation recreation program for children here, inaugurated the summer day camp program and helped form several clubs, including the Semanons, the Tennis Club, the Sierra Madre Band and the Little Coast League Ball Team.

Mr. Mitchell also is responsible for the city's recreation budget and has worked hard to win support for a new swimming pool.

Mrs. Clardy's accomplishments are equally impressive. She started with the PTA in 1946 by editing the Newsletter and later helped organize the room representatives of the PTA.

She is vice president of the PTA Ways and Means Committee, room representative chairman, and has worked on many other special committees.

Active in the swimming pool campaign, Mrs. Clardy also led the PTA school bond campaign in 1947 and has served as clerk to the Recreation Commission.

She is president of the Consero, the young women's organization of the Congregation.

Fashion Show to Mark Diamond Jubilee Here

A Gay Nineties Fashion Show is being planned in conjunction with the Diamond Jubilee kick-off dinner to be held in the Woman's Clubhouse on April 16, Col. Walter Thurber, general chairman, announced today.

In keeping with the theme of the program—the origin and growth of Sierra Madre—fashions depicting the era will be presented.

Sierra Madre's first mayor, C. W. Jones, will be among the scheduled speakers. Special guests of honor will be old-timers, 75 years of age or older.

Charles H. James, present mayor, will present thoughts on the future of the community. The week-long schedule of events includes an historical pageant in the Highland Avenue school auditorium, a public reception for former mayors, councilmen and city employees, and an essay contest for school children.

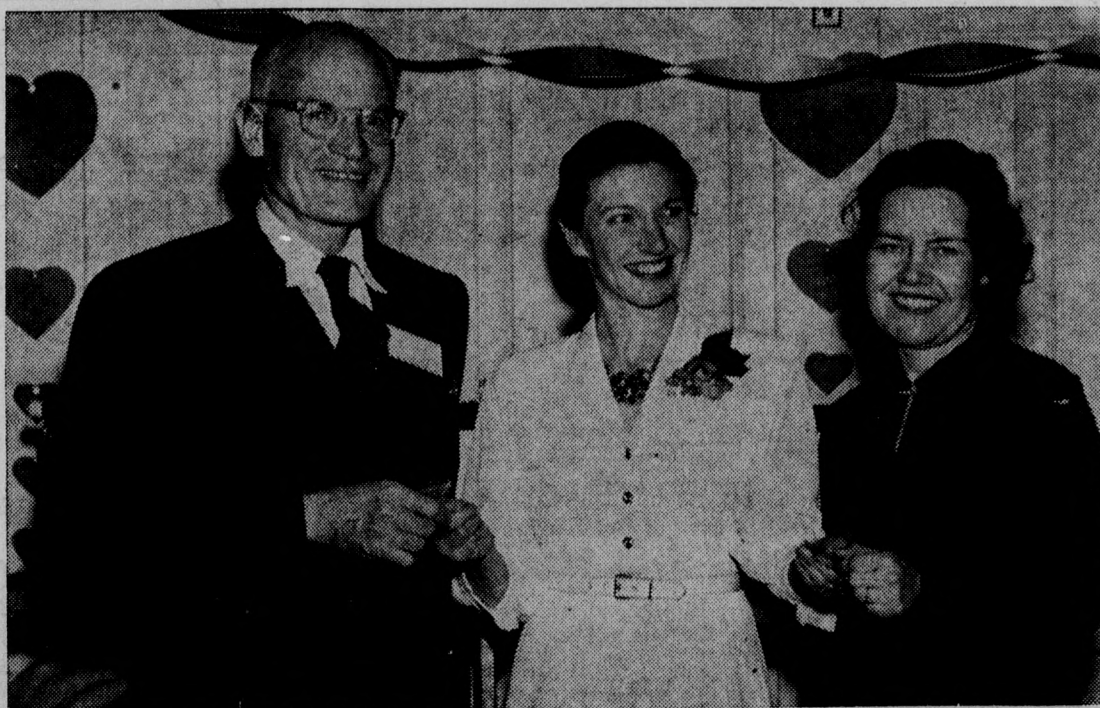

All Sierra Madre residents are urged to invite former residents to visit the community during Jubilee Week.

LOS ANGELES VISIT

Mrs. George H. Galbraith, 97 W. Carter, and Mrs. Wilbur S. Hull, 542 W. Montecito, were the guests of Mrs. Newman Essick last week in her Los Angeles home.

A Canyon Tragedy in the Making

An Editorial

Last week a 9-year-old boy died in Sierra Madre Canyon. A week earlier a 16-year-old youth narrowly missed the same fate, escaping with a broken arm.

The parade of canyon accidents is quickening. Police and mountain rescue groups lay the blame to the recent influx of new residents, who are insufficiently aware of the dangers which attend their children's casual strolls in the mountains.

For the mountains are treacherous, and death can be the price of an unwary step. Briefly, these are the reasons why:

1—Our foothills are made of decomposed granite. A knob or knoll which appears safe can crumble away under the pressure of a human body.

2—Trails have fallen into disrepair since the hiking craze of some years ago drew thousands into the mountains. Still, they're the safest place to be, and the great majority of accidents occur to those who leave the trails. Short-cuts can be fatal.

3—Firebreaks are tempting. But they were meant only to halt fires, not as pathways for hikers. Often they end in sheer drops which have claimed many victims in past years.

Parents offer the only real hope for solution of the mounting problem. Our schools try, through posters, lectures etc. But it's not enough, as the snowballing accident rate demonstrates.

No, it's up to the parents. How? Well, obviously it's next to impossible to keep youngsters out of the mountains altogether when they are so easy to get at.

But parents can see that their children learn their way around the canyons with groups who know the trails and pitfalls of mountain hiking.

Scouting groups offer the best hope along this line. They hike in the hills under expert supervision, and accidents among children with this background are extremely rare.

But how to educate the parents to acknowledgment of the problem?

Well, since the almost-daily headlines don't seem to be enough, how about the PTA and the many civic groups in our locality? Why not stress this problem at the many luncheons and other affairs these groups offer so frequently?

It seems to me our children's lives are worth this much attention.—W.F.T.

Lee Shippey asks

What Do You Think?

The purpose of this column is to arouse discussion—and it seems to succeed in that. Two weeks ago Mr. H. L. Gould took me to task and last week Mr. Fred Edmonds wrote a forceful and emphatic letter which would have been fine if only it had not been based on an incorrect assumption.

Mr. Edmonds, in effect, accused me of being "passionately" opposed to the profit system and free enterprise.

I soundly favor free enterprise, but enterprise which tends toward monopoly is not free. Big business and big farming are crushing out little business and little farming, and "gentlemen's agreements" between three or four or more big concerns can become monopoly.

Profits are necessary and healthy, but excessive profits are not. Here are the exact words of a radio commercial I have heard repeated several times: "We will give you $800 more than your present car is worth." In trade, of course. To my dull mind that seems confession that those particular cars are priced $800 more than they need be priced to assure good profit.

I CONFESS I didn't like it when Time made Curtice of General Motors its Man of the Year—because he was the first company to make more than a billion dollars net profit in one year. That seemed a deification of financial success.

Commerce is necessary. It is the world's great civilizer and inspiration to progress. But history pretty well proves every people that defied success, pomp and luxury grew decadent, and I think the spread of juvenile delinquency of narcotics traffic, of bribery and robbery indicates that far too many think more of business success and high living than of their children, their honor or even decency.

Human nature hasn't changed much since Goldsmith, if my memory is correct, wrote: "Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey, where wealth accumulates and men decay."

We have the best country and the best system in the world. Let's not let it trend toward decadence.

LAST WEEK an airplane executive testified that his company's profits during the last nine years averaged only 3 1/2 per cent—but it spent $40,000,000 in expansion in that time and last year its ten top executives were paid an average of more than $99,000 apiece!

Most of us can't imagine needing $99,000 a year. But there have been cases in which high profits were siphoned off in high "wages" to a favored few, and low dividends were explained by "the high wages of labor."

Too much of all that. Let's all give three cheers for our Mountain Rescue group, headed by Fred Lalone. At their own expense, they responded to 42 calls last year.

Also for the appointment of Dan Strite as our representative on the Area Watershed board. Dan is so quiet not all of us realize what a grand, conscientious, helpful citizen he is.

And for the first fine-music concert in the Library Community Room, tomorrow night, and the puppet show for children to be given there Saturday afternoon.

Ours is a town in which something good happens every day. And we're dead sure no one would dare offer one of our councilmen a $10,000 bribe or even a $2500 campaign contribution.

Around the Square

One year from now, February 1957, the Methodist Hospital in Arcadia is scheduled to open to serve the whole valley. This is the word from Dr. Nathan Jacobs, who is on the temporary executive committee and is the only representative from Sierra Madre.

Dr. Jacobs is enthusiastic about the whole set-up. There will be 135 beds, which is a good-sized hospital; there will be 24-hour emergency care, and the building itself is designed to give maximum efficiency in all phases of medical care.

Right now Nathan is up to his ears in establishing the medical staff, which will be representative of the San Gabriel Valley, and is drafting the by-laws for the permanent executive committee. Everything must be ready to go when the doors open.

This has been a great need for a long time. Amen.

THE BIG RED-LETTER air raid shelter sign on Montecito near Baldwin has been broken and mended to read—SKELTER. Which is probably just what we'll do if the need ever arises. And helter, too.

THE SAME SEVEN persons were certainly busy last week signing the three candidates' petitions for city offices. Shucks, no hassle in April!

PASTRAMI, ANYONE? Morrie Yasskin of the Royal Grill, upon being questioned, divulged that that delicacy is smoked peppered beef. Who else knew that? Also, he can order it in large quantities should anybody want to give a pastrami party.

In a less light vein, Morrie worries about the need for downtown parking area and soon. He has had three parking tickets in two weeks on Kersting Court and is concerned about customers who have felt the finger of the law. One hour isn't long enough to see everybody in town and eat, too.

Morrie's chef, he says, is a specialist, was formerly at the Plantation. On Huntington Drive. What a pity, there goes the memory of the old Plantation in Culver City. And the Cotton Club. And Prohibition. And Stutz Bear Cats. And a young man who used to sing at the Grove with Harry Baris and Eddie somebody—a young man named Crosby.

WARNING ISSUED

A warning that the public should ask for proper identification before making contributions to the 1956 Heart Fund campaign, being conducted throughout February, has been issued by the Los Angeles County Heart Association, which said a number of unauthorized persons have been reported to be "collecting for the Heart Fund" in some communities of Los Angeles County.

OUT OF THE COBWEBS

49 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK. Feb. 21, 1907—The Hotel Shirley is meeting a need in the community; and is being largely patronized. Mr. and Mrs. C. Hall have had long experience in the hotel business and know how to cater to the public. They are more than satisfied with the outlook.

The News appears this week, and will in the future be conducted under the management of Mr. Charles W. Hill, who has purchased the paper and job printing business from Mr. R. T. Cowles, its former publisher.

20 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK. Feb. 21, 1936—Coming from a rehearsal of "The Pill Bottle," which was taking place at the Congregational Church, Mrs. Percy C. Kortkamp of 32 Park avenue slipped and broke her wrist.

5 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK. Feb. 22, 1951—Justus Kraft, 87, of Sierra Madre's first City Council, passed away early Monday morning. Mr. Kraft, a resident here since 1905, lived at 448 W. Highland. He was a native of Frankfurt, Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert D. Dodge, 111 E. Orange Grove, returned to Sierra Madre last week after a 7500-mile motor tour of Mexico and several Southwestern states. Accompanying the Dodes was Mr. and Mrs. John R. Dodge of Ottawa, Canada, cousins of the Sierra Madrans.

Miss Martha Coutant, clerk of the Sierra Madre City School Board, sold her story, "I'll Take Care of You," to the Christian Home magazine, and an article entitled "Painless Education" to the Western Family magazine.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

To Mr. Lee Shippey: Since you mentioned Sec. Wilson's "four Brinks" in your column, I take it as a challenge to say "What I Think." I am what Will Rogers claimed to be, someone who knows only what she reads in the newspapers (dailies).

Why should Sec. Dulles be commended for letting the world know that the U. S. A. would fight if need be? Did we not lead the fight in Korea at the first sign of aggression and thus strengthen the U. N.? Mr. Dean Acheson should be proud of his far-sightedness in defining the perimeter beyond which the U. S. A. would not go unilaterally and thus become an atomic aggressor and destroy the earth. At long last we are back to that same point today with Sec. Dulles taking the credit.

Did we not neutralize the Red Chinese and Gen. Chiang with the 7th Fleet and thus prevent the loss of Formosa? Again we should have backed up Mr. Acheson when he tried to unify China under Chiang and save the Chinese people as our friends.

What has this Administration done? Nothing in Indo-China because we were afraid of another Korea. Is this art? We unleashed Chiang and released him and sent atomic weapons to Okinawa. Is this art?

We are powerless to keep the Reds from militarizing North Korea? Is this art?

We "invited" Seato which has few signatures and no power. We encouraged the Bagdad Pact by Mr. Dulles' policy of encirclement but refused to be a party to it. Is this art?

It is not art, it is fear, a purely negative and destructive posture.

To be brave, we must sit down with our enemies around the United Nations table and deal with them by talking things over in the light of the new atomic age, accepting international law, a court to set precedents, and a police force to carry out their decisions on morals and human rights without losing sovereignty. Above all forgetting old resentments and fears by planning realistically for the future together.

Sincerely,
VIRGINIA G. LUND

Dear Sir:

Will there be a day of discussion? The wide picture painted might show bits of the way toward a world not in jeopardy for children.

JESSIE DUNNING.

Social and Club Activities

Mr. and Mrs. Jack L. Dace

Mary E. Basil, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Basil, 715 Woodland Drive, became the bride of Jack L. Dace, son of William Dace Sr., of Maple Shade, N. J., Feb. 17 in a candlelight ceremony at Chapel of Roses with Rev. David McKibbin officiating.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown fashioned of Rose Point lace and tulle embroidered with seed pearls and sequins. A crown of pearls held her French illusion fingertip veil in place. She carried a white Bible with a spray of orchids.

Ruth Heisinger, maid of honor, was attired in an aqua crystalene ballerina-length frock and carried a bouquet of coral carnations. The bridesmaids, Arlene Dace, sister of the groom; Alice Shaffer, Constance Perkins and Pat Morgan of Fresno, Calif., wore similar dresses and carried aqua carnation bouquets.

Georgia Peterson, guest-book hostess, also wore an aqua crystalene dress and corsage of sweetheart roses. William Dace Jr. served his brother as best man and the guests were seated by Christy Bardon, C. E. Carrick, Frank Ayers and Les Bishop.

The Phillip Rosenblums, of 141 S. Holdman Ave., are a really transcontinental family these days. Phillip Rosenblum flew back to New York on a business trip and took his 9-month-old son, Steven, with him to visit Steven's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Harold Freeman of New Jersey. Meanwhile Phillip's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Rosenblum, have flown west for a visit here. Sounds confused but they will all be together in Sierra Madre this weekend. Busy people!

THE REX SMITHS, of 150 Colony Dr., gave a family dinner party for Al and Betty Foxton and their two children, David and Elisa, and Henry and Dorothy Johnson and their two children, Steven and Crissy. With the three Smith youngsters, that made 13 at dinner. So far no accident or injury has resulted. Who said 13 is unlucky?

EXPLORER SCOUTS of Post 376 attended the annual Explorers Ball Friday night at the Pasadena Elks Club. Explorer Scouts of this area and their young ladies who attended the formal dance are: Philip Woodward and Susan Maloney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Maloney; Robert Joehnek and Hillary Haney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Redford Haney; Thomas Steele and Corlyn Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Powell; Larry Boskovich and Mary McWade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip McWade; Garry Boskovich and Marsha Northrup, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Northrup; Raymond Smith and Diane Toms, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Toms, and Chris Mecca and Wendy De Groot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. DeGroot. The girls were beautiful in their fluffy formal and the young men—well, let's face it, girls, there's something about a uniform that gives a man dash, be he young or old!

District Scouting Officers Meet To Discuss Future Activities

The officers of the Mount Wilson District, Boy Scouts of America, under the chairmanship of Marcus Woodward, district chairman, met at the Youth Hut on Feb. 20 to discuss future Scouting activities in this district.

Edward Cook, of the Advancement and Awards Committee, announced that the District Court of Honor scheduled for March 5 would be replaced by Courts of Honor held within the various units and that the next District Court of Honor would be held on June 4.

He also requested that any person in the Mount Wilson District who would be interested in serving Scouting as a Merit Badge Counselor should turn his name in to the Rev. George Lindsay, A & A Committee chairman.

John McConaghy, of the Camping and Activities Committee, reminded the group of the annual Campore in the Sierra Madre Villa County Park on April 21-22 and of the Scout Circus in the Rose Bowl on May 26.

Health and Safety Committee Chairman Kenneth Rickard said the Bicycle Safety Contest would be held again soon.

Col. Charles Morrison, District Finance Committee chairman, announced that all the sustaining membership kits were out, and that the campaign was well under way. John Senour, I. R. from Pack 383, gave a spirited demonstration on how to successfully enroll a Scouting supporter.

District Commissioner Reg Barrett introduced three new Neighborhood Commissioners: William George, Dan Whitney, and Ted Spence. With Elden Hansen, new I. R. from the L. D. S. Church they were officially inducted.

Sierra Madrean Is Man With Many Irons in the Fire

Allan Bond, of 851 Woodland Drive, is a man with a split personality.

Daytimes he is a substitute letter carrier for the Sierra Madre Post Office.

At night he is a band leader who has played, he reports, under the direction of such musicians as Paul Whiteman, Dick Jurgens, Buddy Rich, Rudy Vallee and Bob Crosby.

Although Mr. Bond has lived in Sierra Madre for a few years now, he has done most of his music work elsewhere. During the summer of 1954, for example, he toured a large part of California, playing at such places as Santa Barbara, Lake Tahoe, Big Bear Lake, Balboa and San Diego.

Now, however, he aims to place his band closer to home and is seeking engagements in Sierra Madre and the immediate area.

The band consists of three to nine musicians and a vocalist and also includes a Hawaiian group for luau's.

Mr. Bond himself plays several instruments, including saxophone, clarinet, drums and string bass, and is band leader of the Los Angeles Marine Reserve Band.

Special Methodist Services Planned for 'March of Faith'

Methodism's "March of Faith" program reaches the local level this week with the coming of the Rev. Donald B. Cooke of Lemon Grove to direct an eight-day preaching and visitation mission in the Sierra Madre Methodist Church.

Special services have been planned for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights of this week, starting at 7:30 o'clock. The series will be concluded on Sunday evening with a special service at 7 o'clock.

Under a comprehensive plan worked out by the Conference Commission of Evangelism each Methodist Church throughout the Southern California-Arizona Area will enter into a similar program.

Following the close of preaching services on Sunday there will be a three-day program of visitation, with members of the congregation calling in the homes of prospects.

His topic for Sunday will be: "Africa Comes of Age."

Things are going to be a little brighter come a few weeks at Pasadena City College. The reason for such an unheralded prediction is the fact that they are coming up with a great baseball team.

The team is mostly composed of veterans, who made a good reputation as ballplayers before they went in the service. The first string infield, except for two, is composed entirely of vets. Namely the vets are Eddie Askew, who beat out Laury Cavalier for the starting short-stop spot. Eddie was an all-star in practically every sport at Marshall Junior High and Pasadena High. Jack Doshier, a great second baseman and a former Pasadena High man, is another. Hal Kruse, the starting first baseman is the guy who beat out another Sierra Madren—Dangerous Dan McMann.

Keep your eyes peeled on the sport pages in a few weeks, for this team has really got what it takes and will go along way.

WE SEE BUTCH BURROUGHS of 365 W. Grandview has now taken off his football cleats and exchanged them for track shoes. Coach Simmons, team will probably use him when Bob Poynter, the State Champion in the 220, happens to break his leg. . . Gary Fukasawa is also out for track.

WHAT'S THIS I HEAR about Bill Veeck planning to move Big League baseball to Sierra Madre? Actually, I think the people would rather see a race track with a lot of parking space come to town.

OH, AND THOSE RUMORS about the Boston Red Sox planning to train in the Sierra Madre Park are very wrong. It's the Sierra Madre School.

COWBOYS AND SHERIFFS of the Wild West may be acceptable television viewing for youngsters, but the TV producers are missing a bet by not looking to the world of sports for their heroes, according to J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of The Sporting News.

In an editorial, Spink suggests several athletes whose stories would make top notch TV material, among them Lou Brissie, who "lay seriously wounded in Italy, but pleading with the surgeon to save his leg so he can pitch again. He did pitch again — and in the majors — and now he is commissioner of the American Legion Junior Baseball program."

National Engineers' Week

Project Vanguard's Satellites Seen As An Engineering Step to Far Outer Space

By JOHN T. KANE

—Man is just about ready to project himself into extra-atmospheric geometry— That tricky phrase, say our far-ranging scientists of today, just about sums up what "Project Vanguard" will mean to the still embryonic arts and skills of space travel.

"Project Vanguard" is, of course, the official name for the space satellite construction program announced last summer by the White House.

As the nation's approximately 400,000 engineers prepare to observe National Engineers' Week, February 19-25, they are looking toward "Vanguard" as one of the most important engineering achievements in history. Indeed, an epoch-making historical event will be recorded on the day when the first successful satellite is rocketed up and placed in an orbit around the planet Earth.

Ever since Presidential Press Secretary Jim Hagerty's announcement of the satellite project, the newspapers and magazines have been filled with accounts of what the satellite will mean for scientists in their study of the upper atmosphere, and what it will mean for the eventual development of travel in outer space.

Unique Step But what these newspaper and magazine stories have tended to pass over lightly is the inescapable fact that Project Vanguard represents a truly unique step in man's climb up the ladder of technological progress. This step could be best described as coordinated engineering on an almost global scale.

For years, men of vision have looked wistfully at the star-filled skies and planned and dreamed of the day when they could leave the sheltering Earth and voyage to the moon and the nearby planets in our solar system. But only in this second half of the 20th Century have such dreams become within the realm of actual accomplishment.

Only now have our metals, instruments, and propellant fuels been developed to the point where that first halting step—a small unmanned satellite—can be placed in an orbit around the Earth.

Coordinated engineering — that is, the "team efforts" of engineers working in perhaps a hundred different fields—is the actual basis for all serious consideration of adventuring beyond the Earth's atmosphere.

This is true whether you consider space travel with present combustion fuels or with power systems based on atomic energy.

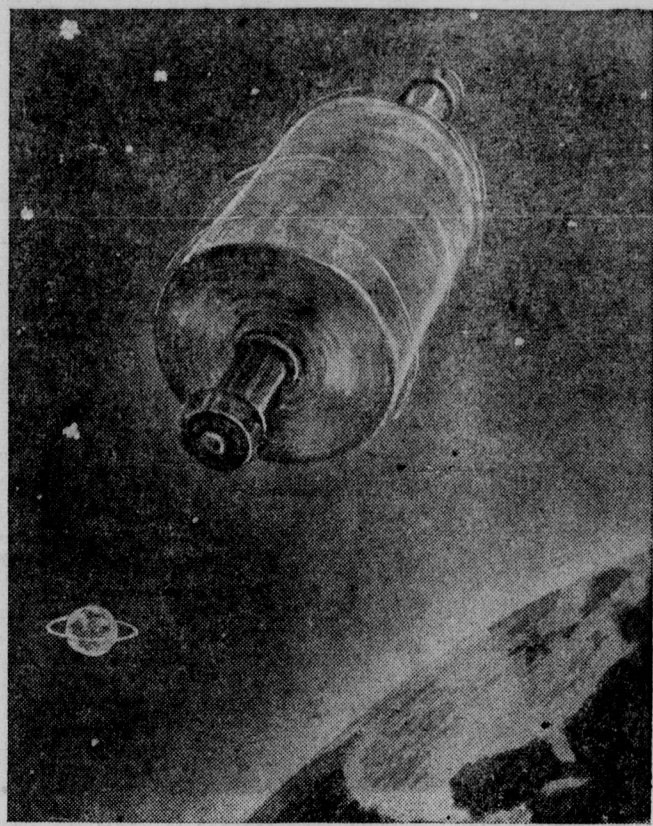

Engineering knowledge and skills lie behind every responsible statement made by scientists as to the feasibility of the current satellite project.

Multi-Stage Rocket

A successful satellite will depend on a successful multi-stage rocket. The success of the rockets will in turn depend on their rocket engines. The engines are dependent on the quality of their fuels. And the success of the fuels goes right back to the many laboratories where chemical engineers must contrive ways of producing and handling these substances whose greatest desire seems to be to explode violently at the least provocation.

Take the rocket engine itself as another example. The engine is a simple thing as far as appearance goes. It looks somewhat like a bushel basket with a narrow neck at the open end. But actually, this simplicity is quite deceiving. Many thousands of engineering man-hours must be expended on every rocket engine design.

With some rocket fuels generating temperatures above 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit it can be seen that no little engineering effort must be applied to the understanding of the effects of such heat on metal surfaces.

The first space satellite, spinning in its orbit several hundred miles above the planet Earth, will represent a historic engineering achievement. Packed with a variety of electronic instruments, the tiny MOUSE satellite will send down a stream of valuable information about conditions at the top of the Earth's atmosphere.

Again, the rocket structure is a case in point. At first sight it appears to be a simple metal shell. A rocket in flight, however, may build up speeds of over 4,000 miles per hour even at relatively low altitudes.

Such a speed subjects the rocket to enormous stresses and strains. Because of weight limitations, the rocket shell and inner framework must be made of the lightest possible metals. Consequently, engineers are called on to design a structure that will resist shaking itself to pieces under the punishment of high-powered flight.

Turning from the ear-shattering rockets to the all but soundless instruments that are packed like electronic sardines inside the shell, one gets into a really broad and abstruse field of engineering work.

Instruments Vital

Instrumentation is one of the most vital areas of modern rocket-etry. A rocket is off the ground and approaching its peak altitude in a matter of seconds. Thus, almost everything we want to know about its behavior in flight must be transmitted back to instruments on the ground, or recovered from records made by instruments in the rocket.

The minimum satellites proposed so far are little more than carriers for an exotic variety of instruments designed to measure just about everything from Earth's light reflecting characteristics to the velocity of cosmic radiation.

And since the first satellites are expected to gradually slow down in their orbits and spiral to a flaming fate in the heavier regions of the lower atmosphere, all the information collected by the instruments will have to be transmitted back to Earth via radio waves.

It's not difficult to see that the planning and design of these tiny but highly efficient instruments will be a major engineering accomplishment. To build them, engineers will borrow from the things they've learned about radar, high frequency radio transmission, telemetering, solar batteries, and, sooner or later, television.

Earth On TV

The matter-of-fact scientists and engineers who are actually at work building the first space satellites and instruments aren't given to spending their valuable time predicting future marvels of the conquest of space, but they can hardly deny that in only a few years the planet Earth will appear on the nation's TV screens — televised down from a satellite orbiting well above our atmosphere.

Project Vanguard may get man only a few "cuddles" into outer space, as distance is measured in the starry universe around us. Still, it is a vast technological undertaking and one which the engineering profession can view with a well justified sense of accomplishment.

The nature and scope of the project was pinpointed by Dr. Fred Singer, the University of Maryland physicist whose plans and calculations for the so-called MOUSE, or Minimum Orbital, Unmanned Satellite of Earth, have been widely discussed in scientific circles.

Outer Space

Dr. Singer declared that "when man finally breaks away from the surface of the planet Earth and ventures into outer space, it will be accomplished through projects requiring heretofore unheard of amounts of cooperation between specialized scientific fields."

"Astronomers, physicists, biologists, chemists, and many more specialists will be working together to make flight beyond the Earth's atmosphere possible. But behind all these scientists will be the many engineers, the men who translate the scientists' theories into practical reality."

As the first satellites become the "practical reality" Dr. Singer was referring to, it will be increasingly obvious that Project Vanguard was truly an engineering step to outer space.

Combination Mail Made Permanent Postal Service

Combination mail, a new service permitting a mailer to enclose a letter or message inside a package or publication, has been made a permanent service of the United States Postal Service, Postmaster Charles E. Louk said today.

Postmaster Louk said the new service became effective Nov. 28, 1955, on a 60-day trial basis and was officially authorized on a permanent basis effective Feb. 1, 1956.

Combination mail enables the user to indicate the presence of a letter or message inside second, third or fourth class mail and pay the appropriate postage for the first class material plus the regular rate for the other class.

Third class mail (printed material) may also be enclosed in second class (newspapers, magazines) and fourth class (parcel post) by declaring it and paying the proper third class charge in addition to the regular charge.

Garden Notes . . .

Flowering Fruit Trees Bring Seasonal Beauty to the Area

For sheer spring beauty the flowering fruit trees—Peach, Plum, Almond, Quince and Cherry are unsurpassed. The delicately shaded blossoms appear in masses along the boughs of these trees, heralding spring's arrival.

There are several flowering trees to pick from but undoubtedly the most popular are the Cherry, Plum and Peach.

Prunus Serrulata, as the flowering Cherry is known botanically, is considered by many gardeners to be one of the most beautiful flowering trees. It flowers heavily, somehow managing to give an effect of billowy clouds.

Among the best species for California gardens, says the California Association of Nurserymen, are the Yoshimo (P. yedoensis) and its varieties, Daybreak and Stribling's Pink.

The Yoshimo grows moderately, eventually reaching 30 feet. It spreads rather broadly and its flowers vary in color from deep rose in bud, to shell pink in flower and finally fading to white as the leaves appear. Daybreak, a single pink, and Stribling's Pink, a single apple blossom pink, resemble the Yoshimo except they are smaller trees.

Especially recommended for Southern California gardens is the Chinese Flowering Cherry (P. campanulata) which also goes by the names of Formosa Cherry and Taiwan Cherry. This reaches 20 feet, the rose colored flowers appearing earlier than those of any other Cherry.

Other Cherries recommended for Californians are the Mt. Fuji, Kwanan, and the Flower-Prunus Persica, does well in warm winter areas and is especially good in Southern California where other flowering fruit trees sometimes refuse to bloom. To assure yourself of good blooms each year, however, you must spray just before flowering time. Cut back the flowering wood severely after blooms are gone. Recommended species are the Altair, the Two Star, Three Star and Four Star and a brand new introduction for 1956, the Saturn.

All of these bear delicious fruit in addition to displaying their lovely blossoms. Helen Borchers with its clear pink flowers and Peppermint Stick and its unusual red and white striped flowers also make fine plantings. There are also early and late double reds and mid-season double white.

For contrasting foliage color the Purple Leaf Plums are a colorful choice. Varieties include Vesuvius with almost black foliage and Thundercloud with dark coppery leaves. Both have white flowers.

The Blirelana and Hollywood also offer gardeners lovely bright pink flowers and purple foliage as well as graceful tree forms.

Cultural requirements of these flowering trees vary. The Peach in addition to its necessary spraying and heavy pruning, should be planted where the structure of the tree is not important and in an area with excellent year 'round drainage.

10-SIERRA MADRE NEWS
Thursday, February 23, 1956Marionette Show
Set for Saturday
In the Library

Children planning to attend the special marionette show Saturday afternoon in the Community Room of the Sierra Madre Library are reminded to take their own cushions because the youngsters will be seated on the floor for the informal program.

The Bob Baker marionette show, arranged by Mrs. David Wood of the Junior Friends of the Sierra Madre Library, will be presented in an intimate style most pleasing to the youthful audience.

The Community Room doors will open at 3 p.m. Saturday for the free, "children only" show which will begin at 3:15. The seating capacity is limited and Mrs. Wood suggests that parents take their children and pick them up after the performance at 3:45.

A related exhibit of books for suggested reading will be on display in the Children's Room of the library.

VILLA
VIEWSBy Toni B. Maurin
SYcamore 7-9634

Can you remember when we didn't have to be blown half way across the street in order to see down into the valley below us? I wonder if our children will ever have the pleasure of breathing in good clean air for one whole month at a time.

TIME IS running out on the throw-away newspapers. I hope you all miss them enough to take a subscription and give a much needed boost to Cystic Fibrosis.

MR. AND MRS. A. E. Acker, of 3330 Vosburg, have been entertaining Mrs. Paul Gremier, an old friend from Washington, D.C., for the past two weeks.

MRS. GEORGE HOLMES, of 1550 Old House Road, entertained at a luncheon for 12 friends on Feb. 20. Among those from our area were Mrs. Harold Kook and Mrs. Jack Parschall Jr.

FIVE COUPLES joined Mr. and Mrs. John Galbraith, of 1262 Hartwood Point, to help Mr. Galbraith celebrate his birthday with a dinner party on Feb. 11. Among those attending were Messrs. and Mmes. Howard Sundberg, Mel Knoll, E. G. Wallenbrook, Gordon Curtis and Ralph Beckett.

MRS. WAYNE FURSTENBERGER, of 3126 Meyer Lo Lane, entertained with Mrs. Marvin Gold at a Valentine luncheon honoring the Mothersingers from the Eugene Field School.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT Griswold, of 1215 Sierra Madre Villa, entertained 20 people from Amesbury and Ames, Inc., after a Japanese dinner on Feb. 17.

MR. AND MRS. HAROLD B. Zook, of 1120 Mesita Road, just returned from an extensive trip in the East. Mrs. Zook spent a week in New York seeing the sights before coming back as far as Chicago where Mr. Zook met her. She flew home with a miserable cold due to being caught in the windy city in a typical winter snow storm but she opined that even the cold was not too great a sacrifice for such a wonderful trip.

JANIE MILNE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Milne, of 3154 Meyer Lo Lane, entertained at her first boy-girl "record and snack" party Feb. 17. Among the young people who attended were Ann Furstenberger, Louise Burke, Barbara Kay, Janet Holmes, Jack McGraw, Bill Taylor, Timmy Doyle, Gary Swanson and Norman Creemiller.

MR. AND MRS. JACK Griffith, of 1155 Mesita Road, were happily surprised this past weekend by the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pollock from Vancouver, B.C. The Pollocks were neighbors of the Griffiths in Vancouver and they spent the entire weekend catching up on old times.

Ranch Resident
Plays Key Role in Reserve Program

A quota of young men between the ages of 17-18½ in Southern California are entitled to draft exemption this year under the new Reserve Forces Act of 1955, according to Lt. Col. Pierce, of 925 Medford Rd.

Col. Pierce, a member of the 311th Logistical Command, largest headquarters reserve unit in the nation, has been given the special assignment of explaining to male high school seniors and their parents in the area the advantages of the new program.

"Every high school senior," said Col. Pierce, "should be aware of the fact that he may become draft exempt under the new law. He may pick the military job which parallels his choice of a civilian career, serve only six months' active duty—not regular army—upon high school graduation, then enter college or business without further interruption for the rest of his life."

Col. Pierce said he will be available for further information on any phase of the new program and may be reached by calling ELgin 5-2918 evenings, or by writing him at 925 Medford Rd., Pasadena.

Celeste Holm Is Guest
At Fashion Luncheon

Celeste Holm, stage and screen star, will be guest of honor when spring fashions from the Lorraine Sutherland Shop, Alhambra, bow to those gathered for luncheon at the Altadena Town and Country Club March 7.

Gloria Carpenter Selway, fashion consultant and columnist, will be commentator at the show. Miss Holm is currently co-starring in "High Society," which is in the making at M-G-M with Bing Crosby, Grace Kelly and Frank Sinatra.

Members of Las Companeras are sponsoring this spring promenade to help the fight on Cystic Fibrosis, the rare fatal disease which strikes young children, attacking the lungs and pancreas.

The disease kills one out of every 600 children born in the United States. Life expectancy of the victims is only seven years and only 2% of them live into their teens.

The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation supports a clinic at the Children's Hospital where more than 200 children are being treated. Several thousand children of this area, according to the foundation, are afflicted with the disease and all of them need expert care.

General chairmen for the event are Mrs. Kenneth K. Christanson, Las Companeras president, and Mrs. Glen Highman, president of the Hastings Ranch Guild of Cystic Fibrosis.

Table decorations are under the direction of Mrs. Alpheus L. Pruitt, who will be assisted by Mrs. Howard Baker, Mrs. Louis Jennings, Mrs. James A. Gittinger, Mrs. Cranor Richter, Mrs. George Schluter and Mrs. Brooks Thomas.

Mrs. Charles Hardison Jr. and Mrs. John DuBois are heading the committee for door prizes and the stage decorating will be done by Mrs. Alan R. Stearns and Mrs. Robert D. Meason.

Mrs. John Behr heads the program committee and reservations are being taken by Mrs. Christanson at ELgin 5-2019 and Mrs. Gordon K. Wright at ELgin 5-2962. Everyone is invited.

Mrs. F. M. Stine
Ranch Visitor

Mrs. F. M. Stine of Fontana, Calif., has been visiting her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mary M. Stine, 3830 Cartwright, and her children, Ronnie, Linda and Laurie.

Last week-end the entire family went to Fontana for a holiday.

Hastings Teen Times

By David Brearley
SYcamore 8-7430

The Valentine Waltz was held at the Girls' Gym of Marshall last Friday. This junior class dance was a big success, and everyone had a great time. The Parent-Teacher Association sponsored the dance, and 352 teenagers were on hand to jig and jive, and that's just what they did, but completely.

LAST SATURDAY, Mr. Garrison's 6th grade class and Mr. Davenport's 5th grade class at Eugene Field School left in a caravan of cars for a day at Mt. Waterman. They all returned in the late afternoon after enjoying all kinds of snow sports. This is a yearly trip to the snow that we teenagers look forward to with as much thrill as our parents do with dread. The poor Dads and Moms have a bad time keeping up, sometimes. Craig Lockard, who is in the 8th grade at Marshall, went along and took his mother, father and sister, Craig, by the way, was one of the cats who was the coolest, even though he rode in a car full of 6th grade girls.

WE MARSHALLITES had another movie in the auditorium last Friday. We were honored to have Mr. Cheeseman, the producer of a very good color film called "Pacific to the Amazon." The film showed us how the friendly natives lived with their many pets, like beautifully colored parrots, as well as dangerous snakes. These natives walk many miles to give a fiesta, and when they have an honored guest, they feed him or her their special dish of a spider monkey. (How delicious!)

PHOTOGRAPHERS from the Sierra Madre News were busy shooting pictures at the Founders' Day meeting of the Field PTA recently. Six Honorary Life Memberships were given to Mrs. Etta Vasse, my former 6th grade teacher at Field; the custodian, Mr. Sam Miclean; the school nurse, Mrs. Ione Washburn; Mrs. Audrey Walburger, past president; Mr. James Stivers, Jimmy's dad; and Mr. Jack Atkinson, past Cub Scoutmaster and Carnival chairman. Your other teenage columnist, Judy Jennings, was real proud of her mother, who was in charge of the Life Membership committee. Of course, I was kind of proud of my mom, too, who was in charge of Founder's Day.

GOOD-BYE FOR NOW. Remember what Mark Twain once said: "If you tell the truth, you don't have to remember anything."

Mrs. B. K. Brackman
Alumnae President

Members of the Kappa Alpha Theta Pasadena Junior Alumnae met recently to elect new officers for the coming year.

Mrs. Bill K. Brackman, 1280 Medford, was elected president, with Mrs. William J. Gosline of Sierra Madre appointed refreshment chairman.

The group has been working for the Altadena Boys and Girls Aid Society, one of their local philanthropies.

THE SIXTH square dance of the year will be held tomorrow in the Wilson gym. Herb Lasker will be the caller and his wife, Barbara, will be his assistant.

"Fashion Bouquet for the Modern Miss" was the theme of the special assembly held last Friday for the girls. It was presented to the girls by the Simplicity Pattern Co. with Miss Gale, Simplicity's educational stylist, making the presentation. The "simple-to-make" dresses were modeled by the ninth and 10th grade girls.

BETHANY CHURCH'S Junior High Department had a roller skating party last Friday night down at the Pasadena Presbyterian Church's basement. It was a very successful party—lots of fun and everybody received their share of blisters on their feet.

DORINDA BROWN, her three sisters and mom and dad, and Eddie Wilson, his two sisters, brother and mom and dad, had a real fun weekend last up in the snow at Lake Arrowhead.

JIM STIVERS' dad, Johnny Atkinson's dad and Gary and Denny Walburger's mother all received Honorary Life Memberships from the Eugene Field PTA. Congratulations!

Behind Little Leaguers Stand
The Businessmen Who Pay

By Charles Ayres

Money is a problem to everybody. To them that don't have, the problem is to get, and to them that have, I hear tell they have to strain to hold on to it.

In any event it doesn't grow on trees and I find it all the more remarkable that community-spirited businessmen can and are willing to "ante up" so that the neighborhood boys can play baseball.

An important meeting for adults interested in participating and parents of boys who wish to play Little League baseball this year will be held in the Don Benito cafeteria at 8 p.m. March 1, 1956.

Except for those who have been directly involved in the financing and management of a boys' baseball league, few have ever given any thought to how much it costs and where it comes from.

There are more good "causes" seeking handouts from our local businessmen than Carter has pills and there are many beleaguered housewives who will attest to the fact that the constant request for money is not restricted to the businessmen by a long shot.

In the first year of the Hastings Little League no teams were sponsored and donations were received ranging from $5 to $200. Last year the four major teams were sponsored by a donation of $350 each from Transit Mixed Concrete, Hastings Shopping Center, Hammon Manufacturing and Wintertown Plumbing.

What did they get out of it? To sponsor a team is to pre-

Six Life Memberships
Awarded by Field PTA

Six honorary Life Memberships were awarded last week by the Eugene Field PTA—three to school personnel and three to parents—at a special Founders' Day program with a "This Is Your Life" theme.

Honored were Jack Atkinson, 3795 Shadow Grove, for his part in school and youth activities; Sam Miclean, school custodian; Jim Stivers, 3890 Shadow Grove, for school and community work; Mrs. Etta Vasse, sixth grade teacher; Mrs. Conrad Walburger, 510 Pembroke, former Field PTA president, and Mrs. Ione Washburn, school nurse.

Chairman of the Life Membership committee was Mrs. Draper Jennings, with Mrs. Russell Pooler, former president; Mrs. John Kane, 1956 president; Mrs. Bess DeGambro, principal; Mrs. Mary Lou Hart, teacher, and Mrs. Arthur Brearley, Founders' Day chairman, serving with her on selection of the six. As each was called to receive his Life Membership pin and the plaquards of the PTA members, a biography was read in the vein of the "This Is Your Life" TV program.

Jack Atkinson was cited for his work with Cub and Boy Scout activities, the YMCA, Indian Guides, for being always "on call" for the annual carnival and the "Dads Show." Mr. Atkinson is in Mexico and was unable to be present.

Sam Miclean, called a friend of the Field children and always a willing helper at PTA affairs, was mentioned as head of his union, a Mason and founder of the Eugene Field Stamp and Coin Club.

Jim Stivers was cited, in addition to active participation in PTA affairs, for his work in the San Marino Congregational Church, the YMCA, Cub Scouts and membership on various civic committees on bond issues and other school affairs.

Mrs. Vasse, well-loved sixth grade teacher, was honored for her excellence in her profession and her work with the children, with quotations read from recommendations of principals wherever she has taught.

Mrs. Walburger was honored for her work in the Field PTA as well as in Temple City and the district council, as a member of Delphians, Cub Scout den mother, and for a pamphlet on "senior delinquency" which she wrote, which was published by the Temple City Women's Club and received wide distribution.

Mrs. Washburn, a former airline stewardess, worker with the Los Angeles County Health Department, and Field School nurse since 1953, was cited as having "endeared yourself to the students, faculty and parents by your thoughtfulness," and for nutrition articles she wrote for the school bulletin "to help make Field the healthiest school in Pasadena."

The speaker for the day was Miss Virginia Gollatz, well known for her dancing parties for the youngsters, who discussed the teamwork necessary between parents and children to make for a happy home. The Field Mothersingers entertained with a group of songs.

A report was heard from the nominating committee, which is headed by Mrs. Richard Beattie and includes Mrs. Dan Taylor, Mrs. A. Peterson, Mrs. DeGambro and Mrs. William Lansill.

FIRE FLAMES

By JAMES HEASLEY

The fire department is able to submit an annual report of low fire loss, with only 26 calls for the entire year.

An estimate, which is allowed to be exaggerated, will not exceed $3,000 total loss. This is something to be proud of, both by firemen and residents as well. It proves to us that there is a great deal of alertness practiced to prevent fire. Be it the residents or the firemen is of little consequence so long as we can retain such good fortune.

As has been stated, this does not aid too much in keeping our fire insurance rate as low as it is. The board of underwriters keeps a sharp eye on our ability to fight fire, with adequate equipment and water supply.

The firemen are ever concerned and realize the great possibility of major fire. We must be ready with proper equipment and the knowledge to use it.

Thirty men in the local service, some of whom have been in the service for many years, are ready and able to respond to alarms. It cannot be expected that they perform as experts or professionals, but if permitted to arrive at a fire early the manpower available is of much value and trained to fight fire.

It is not unusual for firemen to be called out while at drill. Fred Richter met this experience while performing his regular business. When paving a new street, he was surprised to see a stream of water coming from above and running onto his new hot pavement.

Hurrying there to stop the water from ruining his "black-top," Fred ran toward a faucet, only to be met by a stream of cold water coming from the end of a nozzle.

An aggravated lady was quite accurate with her aim and Fred was reminded of "drill night" when his manly chest was soaked. It naturally took Fred's breath away, but the wet shirt soon dried out from the heat of argument.

The annual election of officers retained Jim Heasley as chief, Charlie Brown as secretary and Joe Grippi as treasurer.
